

CLUBS IN PENNSYLVANIA

The Junior Olympic Archery Development program allows youth to excel in the sport of archery. This organization is open to youth archers ages 8-18. Just new to archery? Do not worry - there are different classes for archers of every skill level ranging from basic form to advanced shooting techniques.

Once a member of a JOAD club, the shooter will be taught by a certified coach or instructor and can be advanced in the sport shooting to either a compound or a recurve bow. JOAD holds tournaments at the Regional, State and National levels throughout the year at both indoor and outdoor ranges. Shooters are broken down into four different divisions dependent upon their age and gender. With the goal of developing the skills of the individual archer, JOAD often recognizes achievements with awards. JOAD is a rapidly growing program and the organization has many different places that a child can join if they are interested. Below is a list of places that offer the JOAD program as well as contact information for that coordinator. For more information on the JOAD program, visit JOAD Archery.
