

Osprey

The osprey is often called a fish hawk. It flies over the water until it sees a fish, then drops down onto it with a big splash. It catches the fish with its feet. The osprey has tiny bumps on its feet and long claws, called talons, to help it hold the slippery fish.