

Wild Turkey

Wild turkeys are like farm turkeys, but are smaller and sleeker. Male turkeys are called gobblers. They gobble loudly, fan their tails, and strut to attract hen turkeys. On the gobbler's chest is a group of special feathers called a beard. Turkeys can run and fly fast.